

CAN'T SEEM TO GO

NI SENSE TU

BY IRENE SEGOVIA

Returning home with her daughter Lola, Valeria reunites with her older brother, Pablo, whom she hasn't seen in months. Although she still cares for him, she can't help but feel distrustful due to his history with drugs. Pablo needs a place to stay for a few days and assures her he's clean. Valeria hesitates but agrees. Over the next few days, she rediscovers a different Pablo –attentive and caring – and a long-lost bond begins to rebuild. Gradually, she trusts him enough to leave Lola in his care while she's at work. However, that trust cracks when Pablo stops answering her calls. Desperate, Valeria returns home before it's too late. Sometimes, the strongest bonds are the most fragile.
