

NOT EVEN THE FLIES

NI LES MOSQUES

BY ED ANTOJA

A man arrives in a small rural town in Catalonia to retrieve the body of his son, who died in a forest fire. But the evidence pointing to the young man himself as the culprit does not add up. Together with the deceased's partner, with whom he is fighting about the burial of the body, he will get to know his son as he never did in life, and they will try to unmask those really responsible for the young man's death.

What he does not imagine is that they are facing a conspiracy that goes beyond a homicide: the death of his son covers up a premeditated burning of forest land.
