LA MALDITA TRINIDAD

BY ERIK RODRÍGUEZ FERNÁNDEZ

Elm (26), a young Catholic from El Raval with little experience in love, falls for a street vendor: Annas (23). When he discovers that Annas is involved with another boy, Elm decides to interfere in their relationship to try to split them up. As time passes and he fails to gain the control he longs for, Elm's desires and emotions become entangled, confused, and contradictory, plunging him into a state of turmoil that drives him to commit acts that only God can forgive. He will take refuge in his faith to justify himself and avoid self-reflection, and since he believes in the resurrection of the flesh, he also believes he can achieve the resurrection of his love.
